

BEAUTY IN THE BATH.

Happy Prize Dogs Caught at Their Morning Abiations.

Madison Square Garden Swarms with Holiday Admirers.

The Awarding of Ribbons of Honor Again Taken Up.

Maybe the people who do not care for dogs thought that the people who would be kept away from the canine congress at the Madison Square Garden to-day by the wretched weather, which ushered in the arrival of the West-mister Kennel Club's Benito.

The ne'er made a bigger mistake, though. The doors were hardly opened this morning before the lovers of perfection in man's most faithful friend began to flock in.

AT THE MORNING TUBES.

The early comers surprised most of the prize beauties at their toilets. It is most interesting to watch the dogs while they are being groomed by their attendants. There is something almost human in the intelligence displayed by the animals while undergoing this process.

The setter breeds are particularly noticed for their brilliant enjoyment in coming and going, while results in their silky coats taking on a new lustre. They stand motionless in any position in which they are placed, and their peculiar extraction is apparent from the look of calm superiority with which they gaze upon their surroundings.

PEACE IN THE ASSEMBLY.

And the Personal Registration Bill Made a Special Order.

ALBANY, Feb. 22.—As soon as the Assembly was called to order this morning, Mr. Mabie, the Republican leader, called for the reading of the journal, and thus put everything in its place.

The speaker said that every important question in the bill had been passed, so it was then made a special order for next Wednesday, and the reading of the journal was dispensed with.

CHINESE SUSPECTS BAILED.

The Consul Vouched for Them as Reputable Merchants.

Mr. Lee, Chinese Consul at this port, this morning requested United States Commissioner Romayne in Jersey City to release on bail the three Chinamen arrested last Friday evening at the Pennsylvania Railroad depot on the charge of attempting to evade the exclusion act. They had come from China by way of Tampa, Fla.

The speaker said that every important question in the bill had been passed, so it was then made a special order for next Wednesday, and the reading of the journal was dispensed with.

JEALOUS JONES BEAT HIS WIFE.

Suspicions of Letter Which Simply Offered Her a Situation.

Clarance Jones was to-day sent to the Island for a month from Barren court, on the complaint of his wife, that he had beaten her with a chair and other things.

Mrs. Jones has been a jadis in a flat-house on East One Hundred and Twenty-seventh street, but was notified to leave. She advertised for another place. Yesterday morning a letter came in response, which her husband received. He was jealous, and it contained an appointment with some man.

The woman went out in the evening to see the writer of the letter in reference to another situation, and when she came home Jones beat her.

STATE ENCAMPMENT, G. A. R.

Young Henry Mott Committed to the House of Refuge.

About 1,500 Veterans Attend the Encampment at Syracuse.

SARASOTA, Feb. 22.—There were about 1,500 Grand Army men in the city this morning, and more are arriving on every train. At 10 o'clock there was a short parade from the headquarters to the Alhambra, where the twenty-seventh annual encampment of the Department of New York is to begin.

During the morning session at the Alhambra the business was transacted and the permanent commander, W. L. Moore, delivered his address.

This afternoon the names of the candidates for office will be presented, and this evening the election will be held. The election of the president is to be held at 8 o'clock.

Fined $5 for Fighting on "I" Guard.

William T. Wheeler, who gave his address as Myrtle avenue, Brooklyn, forgot to change cars at the Chatham square station and was carried to the City Hall. He attempted to board an uptown train, intending to get on at Chatham square and take a south Ferry train, but William Alcott, who had been arrested, met him and told him he must not let him in the house and he had no place to go.

Alcott's mother said that for three weeks Alcott had been working in Paterson, N. J., and had just sighted and wanted to stay over night, but he had no place to go.

He expressed a desire to be sent to the police station, and when he was taken to the Jefferson Market Police Court he was committed to the House of Refuge.

ASSAULTED A POLICEMAN.

Young Henry Mott Committed to the House of Refuge.

At 10 o'clock the Alhambra, the Merriweather Street station, found a young boy nearly frozen in front of 757 Washington street. The boy gave his name as Henry V. aged fifteen, and said his mother would not let him in the house and he had no place to go.

He v. mother said that for three weeks Henry had been working in Paterson, N. J., and had just sighted and wanted to stay over night, but he had no place to go.

He expressed a desire to be sent to the police station, and when he was taken to the Jefferson Market Police Court he was committed to the House of Refuge.

ASSAULTED A POLICEMAN.

Young Henry Mott Committed to the House of Refuge.

At 10 o'clock the Alhambra, the Merriweather Street station, found a young boy nearly frozen in front of 757 Washington street. The boy gave his name as Henry V. aged fifteen, and said his mother would not let him in the house and he had no place to go.

He v. mother said that for three weeks Alcott had been working in Paterson, N. J., and had just sighted and wanted to stay over night, but he had no place to go.

He expressed a desire to be sent to the police station, and when he was taken to the Jefferson Market Police Court he was committed to the House of Refuge.

ASSAULTED A POLICEMAN.

Young Henry Mott Committed to the House of Refuge.

At 10 o'clock the Alhambra, the Merriweather Street station, found a young boy nearly frozen in front of 757 Washington street. The boy gave his name as Henry V. aged fifteen, and said his mother would not let him in the house and he had no place to go.

He v. mother said that for three weeks Alcott had been working in Paterson, N. J., and had just sighted and wanted to stay over night, but he had no place to go.

He expressed a desire to be sent to the police station, and when he was taken to the Jefferson Market Police Court he was committed to the House of Refuge.

ASSAULTED A POLICEMAN.

Young Henry Mott Committed to the House of Refuge.

At 10 o'clock the Alhambra, the Merriweather Street station, found a young boy nearly frozen in front of 757 Washington street. The boy gave his name as Henry V. aged fifteen, and said his mother would not let him in the house and he had no place to go.

He v. mother said that for three weeks Alcott had been working in Paterson, N. J., and had just sighted and wanted to stay over night, but he had no place to go.

He expressed a desire to be sent to the police station, and when he was taken to the Jefferson Market Police Court he was committed to the House of Refuge.

ASSAULTED A POLICEMAN.

Young Henry Mott Committed to the House of Refuge.

At 10 o'clock the Alhambra, the Merriweather Street station, found a young boy nearly frozen in front of 757 Washington street. The boy gave his name as Henry V. aged fifteen, and said his mother would not let him in the house and he had no place to go.

He v. mother said that for three weeks Alcott had been working in Paterson, N. J., and had just sighted and wanted to stay over night, but he had no place to go.

He expressed a desire to be sent to the police station, and when he was taken to the Jefferson Market Police Court he was committed to the House of Refuge.

ASSAULTED A POLICEMAN.

Young Henry Mott Committed to the House of Refuge.

At 10 o'clock the Alhambra, the Merriweather Street station, found a young boy nearly frozen in front of 757 Washington street. The boy gave his name as Henry V. aged fifteen, and said his mother would not let him in the house and he had no place to go.

He v. mother said that for three weeks Alcott had been working in Paterson, N. J., and had just sighted and wanted to stay over night, but he had no place to go.

He expressed a desire to be sent to the police station, and when he was taken to the Jefferson Market Police Court he was committed to the House of Refuge.

ASSAULTED A POLICEMAN.

Young Henry Mott Committed to the House of Refuge.

At 10 o'clock the Alhambra, the Merriweather Street station, found a young boy nearly frozen in front of 757 Washington street. The boy gave his name as Henry V. aged fifteen, and said his mother would not let him in the house and he had no place to go.

He v. mother said that for three weeks Alcott had been working in Paterson, N. J., and had just sighted and wanted to stay over night, but he had no place to go.

He expressed a desire to be sent to the police station, and when he was taken to the Jefferson Market Police Court he was committed to the House of Refuge.

ASSAULTED A POLICEMAN.

Young Henry Mott Committed to the House of Refuge.

At 10 o'clock the Alhambra, the Merriweather Street station, found a young boy nearly frozen in front of 757 Washington street. The boy gave his name as Henry V. aged fifteen, and said his mother would not let him in the house and he had no place to go.

He v. mother said that for three weeks Alcott had been working in Paterson, N. J., and had just sighted and wanted to stay over night, but he had no place to go.

He expressed a desire to be sent to the police station, and when he was taken to the Jefferson Market Police Court he was committed to the House of Refuge.

ASSAULTED A POLICEMAN.

Young Henry Mott Committed to the House of Refuge.

At 10 o'clock the Alhambra, the Merriweather Street station, found a young boy nearly frozen in front of 757 Washington street. The boy gave his name as Henry V. aged fifteen, and said his mother would not let him in the house and he had no place to go.

He v. mother said that for three weeks Alcott had been working in Paterson, N. J., and had just sighted and wanted to stay over night, but he had no place to go.

He expressed a desire to be sent to the police station, and when he was taken to the Jefferson Market Police Court he was committed to the House of Refuge.

ASSAULTED A POLICEMAN.

Young Henry Mott Committed to the House of Refuge.

At 10 o'clock the Alhambra, the Merriweather Street station, found a young boy nearly frozen in front of 757 Washington street. The boy gave his name as Henry V. aged fifteen, and said his mother would not let him in the house and he had no place to go.

He v. mother said that for three weeks Alcott had been working in Paterson, N. J., and had just sighted and wanted to stay over night, but he had no place to go.

He expressed a desire to be sent to the police station, and when he was taken to the Jefferson Market Police Court he was committed to the House of Refuge.

ASSAULTED A POLICEMAN.

Young Henry Mott Committed to the House of Refuge.

At 10 o'clock the Alhambra, the Merriweather Street station, found a young boy nearly frozen in front of 757 Washington street. The boy gave his name as Henry V. aged fifteen, and said his mother would not let him in the house and he had no place to go.

He v. mother said that for three weeks Alcott had been working in Paterson, N. J., and had just sighted and wanted to stay over night, but he had no place to go.

He expressed a desire to be sent to the police station, and when he was taken to the Jefferson Market Police Court he was committed to the House of Refuge.

ASSAULTED A POLICEMAN.

Young Henry Mott Committed to the House of Refuge.

At 10 o'clock the Alhambra, the Merriweather Street station, found a young boy nearly frozen in front of 757 Washington street. The boy gave his name as Henry V. aged fifteen, and said his mother would not let him in the house and he had no place to go.

He v. mother said that for three weeks Alcott had been working in Paterson, N. J., and had just sighted and wanted to stay over night, but he had no place to go.

He expressed a desire to be sent to the police station, and when he was taken to the Jefferson Market Police Court he was committed to the House of Refuge.

ASSAULTED A POLICEMAN.

Young Henry Mott Committed to the House of Refuge.

At 10 o'clock the Alhambra, the Merriweather Street station, found a young boy nearly frozen in front of 757 Washington street. The boy gave his name as Henry V. aged fifteen, and said his mother would not let him in the house and he had no place to go.

He v. mother said that for three weeks Alcott had been working in Paterson, N. J., and had just sighted and wanted to stay over night, but he had no place to go.

He expressed a desire to be sent to the police station, and when he was taken to the Jefferson Market Police Court he was committed to the House of Refuge.

ASSAULTED A POLICEMAN.

Young Henry Mott Committed to the House of Refuge.

At 10 o'clock the Alhambra, the Merriweather Street station, found a young boy nearly frozen in front of 757 Washington street. The boy gave his name as Henry V. aged fifteen, and said his mother would not let him in the house and he had no place to go.

He v. mother said that for three weeks Alcott had been working in Paterson, N. J., and had just sighted and wanted to stay over night, but he had no place to go.

He expressed a desire to be sent to the police station, and when he was taken to the Jefferson Market Police Court he was committed to the House of Refuge.

ASSAULTED A POLICEMAN.

Young Henry Mott Committed to the House of Refuge.

At 10 o'clock the Alhambra, the Merriweather Street station, found a young boy nearly frozen in front of 757 Washington street. The boy gave his name as Henry V. aged fifteen, and said his mother would not let him in the house and he had no place to go.

He v. mother said that for three weeks Alcott had been working in Paterson, N. J., and had just sighted and wanted to stay over night, but he had no place to go.

He expressed a desire to be sent to the police station, and when he was taken to the Jefferson Market Police Court he was committed to the House of Refuge.

ASSAULTED A POLICEMAN.

Young Henry Mott Committed to the House of Refuge.

At 10 o'clock the Alhambra, the Merriweather Street station, found a young boy nearly frozen in front of 757 Washington street. The boy gave his name as Henry V. aged fifteen, and said his mother would not let him in the house and he had no place to go.

He v. mother said that for three weeks Alcott had been working in Paterson, N. J., and had just sighted and wanted to stay over night, but he had no place to go.

He expressed a desire to be sent to the police station, and when he was taken to the Jefferson Market Police Court he was committed to the House of Refuge.

ASSAULTED A POLICEMAN.

Young Henry Mott Committed to the House of Refuge.

At 10 o'clock the Alhambra, the Merriweather Street station, found a young boy nearly frozen in front of 757 Washington street. The boy gave his name as Henry V. aged fifteen, and said his mother would not let him in the house and he had no place to go.